18) What test taking strategies could I use to help me with the exam?

- Read the directions carefully and follow them as precisely as you can.
- Plan your time effectively. Work steadily during the RAM Exam. Do not let a question on which you are uncertain of the answer to take up too much of your time.
- Read the question carefully. This tells you what is being asked.
- Read the question a second time to be clear about what the question is asking.
- Read all choices completely. One will be correct (the answer) and the others are incorrect (the distractors). Incorrect answers usually contain common errors that may seem reasonable to a RAM exam taker who does not fully understand the concept that is being asked in the question.
- Carefully evaluate the answer choices for key words and phrases. Be sure to note words such as NOT, EXCEPT and LEAST that may give critical clues to help you answer the question. If the question uses one of these words, the question is telling you that three of the answers are yes and the correct answer, or key, is the no response.
- Read each answer choice twice. As you read each answer the second time, think to yourself whether it definitely does not answer what is being asked (a definite no), appears to answer what is being asked (a probable yes), or may answer what is being asked (a possible yes).
- If you identified more than one answer you think might be correct, evaluate each of these to select the one that is the best answer to the question in the stem. Look critically at the choices for clues.
- Read and answer only the questions as they appear on the exam. There no trick questions. A common reason candidate's select a wrong answer is that they assume something that is not indicated in the question.

19) How will my RAM Exam be scored?

- Your results are derived from the number of questions you answer correctly.
- You must answer at least 70 of the exam's 100 questions correctly to pass.
- Training taken prior to the exam is an excellent way to prepare, though it is not necessarily sufficient, to guarantee a passing grade on the exam. Experience, coupled with review that is inherent in a training course, should help you prepare.

20) How soon will I receive my results?

- Exam result letters will be sent to the individual exam takers within 4-6 weeks of the exam date.

---
